

New Fall Styles

IN
SUITS

THE MODELS here will give you some idea of the charm of the new Fall and Winter Bischof garments. But to appreciate them fully, you must come in and see them.

See the beautiful materials—novelty plushes, corduroys, fascinating plaids, checks and mixtures, poplins, broadcloth, gaberdine. And the new colors—Prune, Eggplant, Battleship Grey, Seal Brown, Negro Brown, Olive, Bottle Green, Regimental Blue, Midnight Blue, and Putty.

You'll be sure to notice how far above the ordinary the garments themselves are—how every line suggests the skill of the master mind executed by the master hand. How in every garment the latest style features are brought out—yet no two are alike.

Bischof garments are made to suit women of every age and every figure. It is the same way with Bischof prices. The range is so wide that there are attractive models for the women who dress economically as well as for the woman who is not limited as to price.

Make up your mind now that you are going to have a Bischof coat or suit this winter. They come in soon and select it.

JUDGE W. R. CRESS.

Judge Cress, who has been in the county for the past ten days speaking at nearly every school house in the county, spoke here Monday to a well filled court room of enthusiastic democrats and several republicans who came out to hear what the Judge had to say. The speaker spoke straight from the shoulder and took no half way grounds in outlining what his course would be if victorious on November 2nd, and if outward appearances counts for anything the Judge feels sure of his footing.

THE OUTLOOK

The political situation as far as it pertains to the Democratic situation in all the nine Democratic districts in the State, is becoming more clarified every day. While the latest news from the Tenth and Eleventh district is very encouraging indeed. If the Democratic workers will keep up their most incessant endeavors from now until election time, we feel that victory is ours by a large majority. There must be no let-up or lukewarmness on the part of anyone. Every voter must hie to the line and keep up a constant bombardment of the fort of the enemy. This sort of protection is what gives to each voter encouragement that is requisite to reach the goal of victory.

THE COLDS OF MANKIND

CURED BY PINES.

Have you ever gone through a typical pine forest when you had a cold? What a vigorous impulse it sent! How you opened wide your lungs to take in those invigorating and myriads of qualities. Yes, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey possesses those stimulating qualities and overcomes hacking coughs. The inner lining of the throat is strengthened in its attack against cold germs. Every family needs a bottle constantly at hand. 25c.

THE REST OF THE TICKET

In order that the Democratic party may be able to invite a cabinet of its own to sit at the table when we celebrate our great victory at Frankfort this winter, it behooves every lover of the party to vote it straight. Give the same support to the middle and tail of the ticket that you give unto the head and there will be no doubt of a great victory for us to celebrate. We have the ticket made up of as fine material as ever went before the electorate and we want all our children there of the same faith so as to enjoy a regular old fashioned love feast. Stamp under the rooster and let her go at that.

Every Woman Should Know

There are three entirely different kinds of baking powder, namely:

- (1) Cream of tartar, derived from grapes;
- (2) Alum, a mineral acid; and
- (3) Phosphate of Lime.

(1) Baking Powders made of Cream of Tartar add to the food the same healthful qualities that exist in the ripe grapes from which Cream of Tartar is derived.

(2) Baking Powders made of Alum add to the food some form of Alum or Aluminum, a heavy metal, wholly foreign to any natural article of food.

(3) Phosphate of Lime is made from rock or by burning bones which by chemical action are changed into a white, powdered acid. It is used in baking powder only because it is a cheaper substitute.

A Cream of Tartar powder never contains Alum or Phosphate.

Every housekeeper should read the names of the ingredients printed on the label and know what she is using.

THE LOUISVILLE TIMES copies the following from the Lancaster Record

"In moving the rubbish from the court house last Saturday one of the workmen discovered a red bat, which has been attracting quite a deal of interest among those who have seen it. It has been placed in a nice cage, and can be seen at the main court house entrance. It is quite a curiosity and is thought by many to be the only one in captivity."

April 1st being so far away will probably be offered as an extenuating circumstance for an excuse for the Times pulling the "cork under." Here at Krueger's brick kiln are thousands of "red bats" that never fly except when a ruck-us is on, or some city man comes along and asks to see a "red bat."

The law and order meeting advertised to be held tomorrow in draw a good crowd and those who want to see vote selling for money and whiskey done away with, should be present at this important gathering. It means something in

Visit to James Maret, The Man Who Put Boone Way on the Map

Amazing Part of Story of Great Kentucky Highway Was Promotor's Cheerful Op- timism in Face of Knock-Down Blows.

By T. D. PENDLETON, in Sunday's Courier Journal.

JAMES MARET.

On registering at the attractive little hostelry at Mt. Vernon, Ky., I asked the clerk if he knew Mr.
James Maret. "Sure!" he responded. "Do you want to see him?"

Then to a bell boy: "George, look out the door there and see if Jim Maret is't standing on the corner there."

Upon looking out (the doorway George answered that such was the case and the clerk genially offered to have Mr. Maret called for me. "Wait a minute," I interrupted. "Perhaps I'd better find out first whether he cares to talk to me. I want some data on the Boone Way."

The clerk laughed aloud in which he was joined by the bell boy and a bystander or two. "Excuse me," he said, wiping his eyes, "but the idea of finding out whether or not Jim Maret wants to talk Boone Way kinder hits Mt. Vernon folks on the funny-bone.
Why, Jim's been talking about the Boone Way steady, to anybody that'd let him, for three years. He's spent so much time at it that he's hardly taken time to eat and sleep. Why, man, Jim Maret's talked the Boone Way into a fact."

After supper, in Mr. Maret's office at his residence, I found that what the hotel clerk had said was all true. The man who put Boone Way on the map of America was glad to talk about it—and talk he did in a modest but logical and convincing way that so held my interest that when I walked through the flower-scented village streets back towards the hotel the street lights were out and the midnight passenger had gone by.

The most amazing part of the story of the great highway is Jim Maret's cheerful optimism in the face of knock-down blows. From the day, on January 2, 1913, when the seventeen members of Mr.
Vernon's Commercial Club met in the Peoples Bank room and little Jim instigated the big project to the present when the ninety-eight miles of perfect roadway between Crab Orchard and Cumberland Gap are assured, never once did his bump of hope decrease a minute. And the hope was of the best brand, the kind that backs itself with good, hard, honest licks.

At first the immensity of the project seemed so out of proportion to the number of its backers that many people just smiled at mention of it. "Oh yes," they agreed, "a good thing; certainly a good thing, if possible—but Great Scott! ninety-eight miles to be cut over one of the rockiest regions of the State!"

FIRST GOVERNMENT REPORT.

At the request of Senator Bradley the United States Department of Agriculture sent its senior engineer over the road in a buggy to make a report as to the cost of the road; and the figures of this report totted the sum of $1,024, 949 10. But did this faze Jim Maret? He simply took the battered cover off his little old typewriter and began talking again to all the people his meager postage fund allowed him to touch—even dug down into his own jeans for more postage when that was gone, and talked some more.

Well, with such a man at the helm, things were bound to happen and pretty soon they did.
With the passing of the Bosworth State Aid Bill those who, though friendly, had been lukewarm, began to get up steam. Letters, road dope of all kinds burdened the rural carriers. In November 1914, a "Speaking Company" was launched. Maret did no public speaking but simply talked. He went through the southeastern counties over and over and fired the hearts of the mountain people.
Bell county started the ball rolling with a road appropriation of $250,000. Whitley, not to be outdone, duplicated; Knox came across with $200,000; Laurel voted $100,000; and, as might have been expected, Rockcastle went the length of her cable with another $100,000, while Lincoln Fiscal Court promised to take care of four miles out of Crab Orchard to the Rockcastle line.

GREAT HIGHWAY ASSURED

After this, things hummed until now the great highway is assured. And it is safe to say that in all the country no greater combination of varied scenery with historic interest can be found.

Ascending the Gap from the Virginia-Tennessee side, by wonderfully engineered curves, and passing the grim Pinnacle, the road drops gently to the beautiful broad streets of Middlesboro.
The whole of Middlesboro was planned on a generous scale. On a hill overlooking the town and right in its center stands the Mid-dlesboro Hotel, a hostelry, which in point of luxuriously big rooms and beauty of surroundings, can not be surpassed in the South. In future the automobile traveler, who registers here over night may have for himself an apartment of a size adequate to hold three New York rooms with a corner or two to spare, with a bath attached of the good old-fashioned species—long enough to lie down in. And from his three or four windows he may pick and choose the view he likes best.

From Middlesboro the road lifts itself not too strenuously overtopping Log Mountain and descending easily to Pineville, a thriving mountain town of the first class.
Between Pineville and Harboursville the road runs through Flat Lick—of Indian-fight fame. Boys at recess at the district school house may step behind the building and play "Indian fighter" on the exact trail where one of the hottest fights of pioneer days actually took place.

STRETCH OF UNIQUE ROAD Barbourville—immortalized by John Fox's "Hanging of Tarlton Hall"—left behind, the road hustles on to Corbin, and between the two places is a stretch of road that is unique in Kentucky, for a long "fill" was given to the roadmakers by the L. & N. railroad and has been utilized to a great advantage and makes a bit of novelty in the journey that one cannot forget.
Then between Barbourville and Corbin is one of the most beautiful pieces of engineering on the entire route. At a distance it seems that the mountain has been terraced for some great estate so smoothly and evenly does the one wind forward and back to reach the top by easy grades.
At intervals the motor must be stopped for a series of beautiful views, each seeming finer than its predecessor, until at the top a panorama taking in miles is spread out for the eye. Sounds carry so that from below comes up a chorus from the birds that seem to emanate from a veritable "choir invisible" as red bird, thrush and mocking bird vie with each other in voicing their approval of the universe. On this part of the road one keeps a finger constantly on the shutter release of his camera, fearing to miss some bit of beauty.

But it is between London and Livingston that one begins to realize that he is traversing the exact route followed by Daniel Boone and the bold pioneers who used his "Wilderness Trail." On top of Wild Cat Ridge, where the road is scarcely wider than the wheels of the machine, one understands why the great scout chose the dizzy ridge instead of the undoubtedly easier path in the valley below—up high he could see the Indians in time to defend.

ROCKCASTLE RIVER FORD

Rockcastle River ford at the foot of Wild Cat, the scene of tragic drownings among the little bands of travelers, is a wildly romantic bit and comes just at the outskirts of Livingston.

Next comes Mt. Vernon, one of the most progressive towns on the map, and the home of James Maret, the father of Boone Way.
Maret's work for the highway is by no means the whole of what he has done for progress in his county. He bought the first typewriter, brought the first telephone established the first newspaper, officially located and routed the first highway across Kentucky (Boone Way from Cumberland to Louisville), and established the first road organization. He has found time to serve as a member of several State Road Associations as secretary of East Kentucky-Tennessee Dixie Highway Association, as vice president for Kentucky of the Southern National Highway Association, and Southern Appalachian Good Roads Association—all of this, while giving himself heart and soul to the presidency of Boone Way. And while filling all the offices conscientiously and capably, Jim Maret has not declined the labor of organizing and keeping going most of the local organizations in his county and town. With such a worker at the helm is it any wonder that Mt. Vernon and Rockcas-tle county stand in the very forefront of progressive towns and counties? Nothing half hearted about the methods of any association run by Jim Maret. He is never satisfied with "Pretty well!" he goes out after attainment and he generally bags it.

Brodhead comes next on the Boone Way, at the junction of Boone's Fork and Nigger creek, which form Dix River. Near here was the camp in which Boone spent so many dreary months of waiting. Brodhead is a wide awake little place with commercial transactions far beyond what could be expected from its size.
It is picturesquely located.

The end of the ninety-eight miles' stretch comes with the village of Crab Orchard. Not a vestige remains of the great wild crab apple orchards which gave the place its name and were so fragrant that travelers could smell them miles away and know the safety of the "station" was at hand. Boone Way was officially routed here at a convention, May 14, 1915, from Cumberland Gap to Louisville. Jackson Highway will use the same roadbed from Lexington to Louisville, and markers for the two respective highways will be placed on opposite sides of the road. (Jackson-Boone).

The Dixie Highway will use the same roadbed as the Boone Way (Dixie Boone) from Cumberland Gap to Mt. Vernon, where it diverges for Richmond, Lexington, Cincinnati and Indianapolis.

ORIGINAL BOOSTER.

Poor Boone! He shared the too common fate of the pioneer of any great undertaking in the world's history. His was the seasoned woodsman's craft that sized up the natural advantage of gap or creekbed when possible, and his the stout heart that when easy traveling was not possible dared the sheer cliff and swift ford and literally wrested the road from the wilderness. Yet hear him a scant twenty years after, when a road-improving project was on foot, begging for wha, should have been proffered him by a grateful government:

"February the 11th, 1796

"Sir, after my Respts to your Excellency I wish to inform you that I have some intention of undertaking this new Road that is to be cut through the Wilderness and I think myself intitled to the offer of the business as I first marked out that road in Mch. 1775 and never recd any thing for my trubel and sepose I am no Statesman I am a Woodsman and think myself as capable of cutting that rode as any man.  Dear Sir your very omble sarvant (signed) DANIEL BOONE.
To his excellency governor Suel by."

And the worst of it was he did not get the commission after all.

Now Jim Maret, with his little old battered typewriter, has carved the ninety-eight miles of the great highway as surely as Boone did the "Trail" 140 years back, and his great work must not be unrewarded and unappreciated as was the great pioneer's. The movement on foot to build a monument to Jim Maret should have the support of every citizen with a spark of gratitude in his makeup.
And it will have. Mountain people know Jim Maret served them for love, without receiving a dollar of remuneration, and mountain people do not forget. To them Jim Maret is "Our Jim," and before very long the monument will be a fact.

ROBT. L. GREENE

The head of the Democratic ticket seems to be sweeping the State like a whirlwind. Nevertheless the duties devolving upon every true Democrat does not stop with him. Every man's election on the ticket deserves the same support and fidelity that Mr. Stanley seems sure to get. No man nominated in years, whether he be in politics or business can outdistance honest Bob Greene's popularity. No man, no matter where he lives or what he does, is any more thought of for his honesty and devotion to the principles of caring for the interest of every constituent under whose care he has been placed to perform his official duties, than is honest Bob Greene.

COUGHS THAT ARE STOPPED

stopped. Dr. King's New Discov-

LONGEST TRAIN. The longest train that ever past through Mt. Vernon, went over the rails on Tuesday at 6:25 p. m. going south with 83 cars and cabooses pulled by two engines. The length over all being 3885 feet, lacking only 1240 feet of being a mile in length. That's some train for these grades.

Farmers' Institute met at Brodhead, Wednesday and here yesterday as advertised. We have had no report of the Brodhead meeting, but at Mt. Vernon the same old story is to tell, a hand full of people out to hear these splendid lectures. The farmers evidently are satisfied with their knowledge of farming, and such being the case, it looks like a waste of money to hold these institutes in Rockcastle and especially in Mt. Vernon.

RULES OF THE ROAD.—How few people observe the "rule of the road," either in riding or walking. Many turn to the left when meeting another on the side walk or road when everyone knows, or should know the correct side is the right. When overtaking and passing a vehicle the faster vehicle should pass on left side of the slower one which should pull toward the edge of the road to the right, especially on narrow roads thus allowing the vehicle approaching from the rear to pass on its left.

SPECIAL TO LOUISVILLE TIMES: Somerset Ky., Oct. 6.—Local business men have been notified that after this date there will be no telegraph communication with Rockcastle county, adjoining this county, nor with the county as at Mt. It is said to be the only county in the State now without a telegraph office.

What do our people propose to do? The Western Union have wires running through this county. If there is no law to compel them to put in and maintain an office in our county seat then we should see that our next legislature pass such a law.

DIPHTHERIA:—Already there have been a few mild cases of diphtheria in the county. In one or two instances children have been allowed to go for a week or ten days with sore throat, large kernels in the throat and the same badly swollen, the presumption that it was only a bad cold. There has been one death reported already. A little precaution will prevent many cases. Parents, when your child gets a sore throat keep that child at home and be sure you know what the trouble is before sending it to school or to mix and mingle with other children. Remember the golden rule. If the teachers in the various schools will keep a close watch and promptly send home any child suffering with throat affection of any kind, epidemics which might exist, would otherwise be avoided. Precaution is the first and greatest requisite to health.

INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE FOR Representative

TO THE VOTERS OF ROCKCASTLE COUNTY:—At the solicitation and promise of support of many friends, regardless of political affiliations, I offer myself as an independent candidate for the office of Representative in the next General Assembly of Kentucky, from Legislative District No. 70, composed of Laurel and Rockcastle counties. And if by your votes, you place this very important office in my keeping, I promise you that I will discharge its duties in an honest, faithful and conscientious manner. For as an independent my actions would not be bound or my vote controlled by any political ties or party caucuses, but I would be free and untrampled to work for and vote for any and all measures that would be of most benefit to the people of our district.

The office of Representative is a very important office, one of the most important that you can bestow on a man. As it is through the Legislature that the laws are made that must govern the State or county, and which, of course must necessarily affect the interests of every one.

If elected as your Representative, I would favor the passage of an Act that would give equal representation to all parts of the State—re districting, as it were, founded on justice and not on politics.

My temperance views are in accord with the platforms of both the old political parties, as to our present County Unit Law. As I think this is the best temperance law that can now be obtained, but I do favor a more rigid enforcement of this law. As there is a great deal of illegal handling of liquor all over the country, we must all admit. But if I am elected as your Representative, I will introduce a measure, which if it becomes a law, will greatly lessen if not entirely do away with this evil.

I favor the passage of any law or laws that will advance the cause of education or the betterment of our schools. But I am opposed to the frequent changes that are made in the text books of our schools. And I favor the passage of an Act that would prevent any changes being made in school books oftener than every five years, and then only in a gradual way and not a sweeping or radical change. As these constant changes in school books works too great a hardship on the poor man's pocket book.

I am a strong advocate of good roads, and believe that under our present State Aid Law great good will result to our mountain counties. But still I believe that a few beneficial changes can be made in this most excellent law that will make it more satisfactory and put the construction of the roads on a more business like basis.

Your Representative in the Legislature is nothing more than your servant. You pay his salary and you have the right to expect of him that he will promote and guard your interests at all times. And it is a question of getting a "laborer worthy of his hire." And when you come to cast your vote on November 2nd, this is the simple business proposition for you to decide: If you honestly and conscientiously believe that my opponent can better promote and guard your interests in the next legislature than I can, then I feel that you should give him your support, but if on the other hand you feel that I can better serve your interests, then won't you please give your vote to me.

As the time is limited between now and November election, it will be an impossibility for me to travel over both counties and see each of you personally and solicit your support, then won't you please take this notice and consider it as a personal appeal to YOU FOR YOUR SUPPORT. And if by your votes you place this most important office in my keeping, I again assure you that its affairs will be conducted in a fearless impartial and non-partisan manner, and that no official act of mine will ever give you cause to regret having reposed your trust in me.

Very respectfully,
E. A. CHILTON.

UNCERTAIN HEART ACTION ALARMING

Mrs. W. O. Howell Says Tanlac Relieved Her of Palpitation.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 14, 1915. Mrs. W. O. Howell, wife of the agent for the Louisville Carriage Company at the Seelbach Hotel, who lives 619 South Jackson St., this city, is one of the most ardent believers in Tanlac, the peerless preparation, as is shown by a recent statement she made of the benefits she derived from it.

"I was weak and nervous and dizzy," she said, "any sudden noise made my heart beat so fast it frightened me. I had nervous headaches. Whenever I walked upstairs it left me almost exhausted.

"My stomach was weak and my food did not agree with me. If I ate anything solid it made me miserable. I was told that I had catarrh of the stomach, but the medicine I took did me no good until friends suggested Tanlac to me. I'm glad now that I took their advice.

"It was almost no time until I felt better, and now I can eat what I please. I owe it all to Tanlac. My nerves are in good shape again, and I no longer have palpitation of the heart. Tanlac is the only medicine that ever helped me. I can't say too much in praise of it."

Tanlac is now sold in Mt. Vernon, Drugstore of Chas. C. Davis, and can also be obtained at the Central Drug Co., Livingston, and John Robins' Drug Brodhead, Ky.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is, catarrh. The Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.
